Three Die In Cass Smashup

Auto Tumbles
Across Field;
Driver Is Okay

NILES—The 1967 auto fatality toll in Cass county jumped from zero to three early this morning when a car with four young people hurtled off M-140 and rolled over several times in a field.

According to Niles State police those killed were: Thomas Francis Krieg, 25, route 3, Twin Lakes; Dowagiac; Mary Lee Briney, 25, 1339 Phoenix street, Niles; and Patty Seese, 26, of South Bend.

The three were pronounced dead at the scene by Cass county coroner Rola Schoff.

The driver and the only other occupant of the car Raymond Engler, 22, route 5, Dowagiac, was admitted to Niles Pawling hospital suffering from shock and minor bruises. His condition is listed as good.

Troopers said it appears the convertible simply sped off the highway in an S curve of M-40 near White street just across the county line about three miles north of Niles.

The car was going at an apparent high rate of speed when it left the road and tumbled over several times, throwing out all the occupants, troopers said.

They added that although the road was slick and wet they do not believe this was a factor in the accident, since there were no skid marks. The accident is still under investigation troopers said.

The McLaughlin funeral home, Dowagiac, is in charge of arrangements for Thomas Krieg.

Don't Think Winter Is Over

Mercury Hits 60
But Will Drop

With two-thirds of Michigan's wintry weather still ahead, Old Man Snow pulled in his horns this weekend to make way for a minor heat wave that pushed thermometers in southwestern Michigan toward a balmy 60.

Readings that touched a peak of 58 to 60 degrees in the Twin Cities and elsewhere shortly after midnight last night are off virtually all the snow cover.

It also turned unpaved roads throughout southwestern Michigan into soup.

The forecast, matching declining temperatures since mid-night, promises cooler but still unseasonably mild weather and showers tonight and tomorrow, and a high near 40 Tuesday.

The thermometer has stayed above freezing since about noon Saturday.

The rapid rise in temperature melted away the frosty mortar that has kept unpaved roads throughout the area on firm footing. South Haven city officials closed one new alternate route to the city's north side early today because of frost upheaval.

Grades Send 6 To Death

MADRAS, India (AP)—Because they scored low marks at school, seven girls decided to end their lives by jumping into a well with their hair plaits and saris tied together.

Six died. The seventh, 16, fell on a ledge inside the well and is recovering in a hospital.

The six bodies were buried Sunday in a common grave.

NEWSWOMAN'S CAR FOUND: Sgt. Domingo F. Morada, of San Antonio, Texas, American advisor to the Vietnamese 40th Infantry Regiment, radios word that the small French car of missing French news woman Michele Ray has been located in a sugar cane field near Ngoc An in the central lowlands some 280 miles northeast of Saigon. She disappeared Jan. 17. Villagers said she drove up slowly the next day with two Vietnamese young men in the car and two armed Viet Cong walking alongside. The villagers believe she is being held in the area. The car was booby trapped.

'Cal' Students Eye Protest Of Firing

Quest For Kerr's Successor Begins Amid Confusion

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Staggered by the surprise firing of President Clark Kerr of the University of California, leaders of 87,000 students on nine UC campuses planned mass meetings today to decide student action in the crisis. Also, the quest begins for Kerr's successor.

The Board of Regents, by a 14-to-8 vote, last Friday ended the 34-year career of Kerr as president of the nation's biggest university system. Gov. Ronald Reagan, an ex-officio regent, voted against Kerr, 55.

Reagan said during his election campaign that Kerr permitted campus political activity in behalf of Reagan's Democratic opponent, then Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

"We have no plans for a protest today," said Dan McIntosh, student body president of the Berkeley campus, largest of the UC system.

McIntosh said he would call for a discussion of the Kerr ouster, along with Reagan's controversial proposals to charge tuition and cut the UC budget, both of which Kerr had pledged to fight.

At two campuses in Southern California there was talk of classroom boycotts to protest the firing of Kerr.

At Santa Barbara, student body president Jeff Jeffcoat urged organization of a university-wide boycott. And at Irvine, Dave Altshuler said his student group was pushing for an immediate one-day strike today.

Should protests of this kind materialize, it would be the first

Gregory To Back Strike For Powell

Negro Comedian
In Detroit Tuesday

DETROIT (AP)—Comedian Dick Gregory, a militant civil rights advocate, will be in Detroit Tuesday to support a proposed nationwide general strike protesting the refusal of the House to seat Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., pending an investigation of his conduct.

The strike has been scheduled for Feb. 13 by the United Strike Committee in Support of Powell, which named Gregory as its honorary chairman.

Attorney Richard Henry, general secretary of the committee, said that since the initiative for the strike was taken in Detroit, the group is bringing Gregory to the city to announce it officially.

NAACP SPLITS

Meanwhile, the president of the Detroit branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has split with his executive committee over the proposed strike.

The Rev. James Wadsworth supports the strike but the executive committee said:

"We want to emphasize that his action does not reflect the official position or the thinking of the Detroit branch."

The committee said it favors a fair and impartial hearing for Powell, consistent with the rules and regulations governing the conduct of all legislators.

Officials Admit Turmoil

Police Balk

Anti-Maoists

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai reportedly committed Red China's 2.5-million-man army to crush Mao Tse-tung's opponents as news of revolt and resistance crackled out of the embattled mainland today from frozen Manchuria to Kwangtung in the south.

Japanese newsmen, quoting Peking wall posters, said Chou's announcement at a rally in Peking Sunday was the first statement by a top government official that troops would be used against Mao's foes.

The posters said Chou declared: "The People's Liberation Army is the most important tool of the dictatorship of the proletariat. It will resolutely suppress the handful of counter-revolutionary elements who are trying to destroy the proletarian great cultural revolution."

Japanese correspondents in Peking also reported purge chairman Chen Po-ta and Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, had ordered the people of the capital to establish a revolutionary city government composed of workers, peasants, soldiers, revolutionary students and teachers.

Quoting wall posters, the correspondents said many pro-Maoists were missing after a clash with students and workers supporting President Liu Shao-chi in the Manchurian industrial city of Chang Chun Jan. 21. The posters said the "reactionaries" were assembling a force of 60,000 students.

HER LOSS IS FELT: Mrs. William Johnson of Three Rivers sobs against family car when learning her pet dog, "Snooky" died in fire. "Oh, God, I want my dog. I miss him," she cried. (Harold Goppert photos)

Tiny Dog Saves Master In Fire

Dies After Barks Awaken
Three Rivers Man

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

THREE RIVERS — The barks of a tiny chihuahua named Snooky saved the life of his master Saturday afternoon.

William Johnson awoke and fled to safety, as fire swept the family's trailer home in rural Three Rivers.

Snooky didn't make it. He crouched in a corner and died, apparently of suffocation.

"I'd be dead now, if the dog hadn't woke me up," said Johnson, blackened with smoke grime, but otherwise unharmed.

He said he went to bed shortly before noon, after his shift at the Three Rivers Essex Wire Co. plant let out. His wife, Patricia, was working in a Three Rivers office.

"When the barking woke me up, there was nothing but dense smoke. Then, there was a wall of fire that shot from one end of the trailer to the other," Johnson spoke from the front seat of the family auto. On the back seat, wrapped in a blanket, laid the body of the year-old and-a-half old faithful pet.

"I just got out the back door in time. The dog, just wouldn't come, and I couldn't get to him."

Fabius-Lockport Park Rural Fire Association officers indicated the blaze apparently began in a couch. They were called to the scene near the St. Joseph river about two miles east of Three Rivers about 12:15 p. m. by a neighbor.

POSSessions LOST
The family's possessions were destroyed, and the heat melted light switch covers, telephone and television set into grotesque masses.

Mrs. Johnson arrived home in a taxicab, found her husband safe and her home in ruins. Then, she saw the contents of the small blanket:

"Oh, God, I want my dog. I miss him. Oh, God..."

'Pay Raise' For Aged Is Asked

Johnson Wants
$70 Per Month
As Minimum

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson sends Congress today his proposal to increase by at least 15 per cent the Social Security benefits received by 23 million Americans.

The message, whose major outlines were sketched by Johnson in his State of the Union message Jan. 10, is also expected to urge a raise in minimum benefits from $44 a month to $70 a month and a guarantee of $100 a month for persons with 25 years or more of coverage.

Johnson also said he would recommend an increase in the limits retired workers can earn without losing Social Security benefits and an extension of medicare benefits to 1.3 million permanently and totally disabled persons under 65.

Johnson's proposals, scheduled for early scrutiny in Capitol Hill, will also likely contain a schedule of increases in Social Security taxes to finance the proposed hike in benefits. Johnson did not discuss this in the State of the Union message.

But the latest actuarial estimates made by the Social Security administration are that the present revenues are sufficient to provide an increase in benefits of around 8 per cent. Johnson said his proposed increase would average 20 per cent — and put the first year cost at $4.1 billion.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has already said he will hold hearings on the President's proposal to raise Social Security benefits before consideration of Johnson's recommendation for a 6 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

FORD'S PLAN
House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said in outlining the GOP congressional program last week that Social Security benefits should be increased 8 per cent and that future increases should be pegged to rises in the cost of living.

The GOP leader said this could be done without an increase in Social Security taxes.

While conceding this is so, Social Security officials say the result would be to freeze the present structure of Social Security by committing funds that would otherwise be available for expanded coverage for use in paying cost-of-living increases.

MORE FIREWORKS AT BERKELEY

Coaches and athletic directors come and go on American campuses as their teams' fortunes rise and ebb, but it is a rare day in the calendar that a college or university president is separated violently from his cap and gown.

Unquestionably many a resignation or retirement has a rearward push from unseen forces, but firing a president outright is almost unheard of today.

The University of California regents followed this exception to the rule three days ago when by a 14-8 vote they notified Dr. Clark Kerr that his services as chief executive are no longer required.

Participating in the majority vote was newly installed Governor Ronald Reagan whose title automatically makes him a member of the University's governing board.

The immediate cause of the discharge comes under the heading of insubordination.

California's state finances simmer in the same blood bath that besets all local governmental bodies.

There are too many problems and too little money to meet the former.

In drawing up a tentative budget, Reagan is asking the legislature to appropriate what amounts to an across the board cut of 10 per cent for all state supported functions.

Kerr responded to the proposal by installing a serious limitation on the size of the incoming freshman class for the fall term.

The regents rescinded this act and decapitated its author within a matter of days.

Behind this outburst is the deeper question of not all being well within the school. Part of the trouble could be its structuring, much of it quite apparently is financial, and mismanagement contributes its share.

Unlike the Michigan system under which each state supported college or university is a separate entity, the University of California is an educational holding company.

It administers nine campuses. Some of them, such as UCLA and California (the Berkeley campus) may be bitter rivals in sports and others may specialize in diverse fields such as agriculture and oceanography, but all of them are responsive to the University in matters of budgeting, policy and overall administration.

The University does not charge tuition, but derives its support from state appropriations. In practice, the University charges a wide ranging and relatively high set of fees for most of its courses. It is also the perennial recipient of federally financed research projects, other U.S. grants to education, and gifts from private sources.

Its headquarters are at Berkeley; its governing body is an elective board of regents; and its real management is entrusted to a salaried president and staff.

In theory the arrangement should make for one, big, happy family devoted exclusively to intellectual production.

The theory has prevailed reasonably well up until recent years when the student population explosion, financial stringencies, and a lot of self generated politics off the campuses have thrown sand in the gears.

The separate campuses now politic vigorously for money; the regents incline to set policy along the line they vote at the polling booth; and the average Californian is beginning to rebel against the cost of maintaining the good life which he demanded so vociferously only a few years ago.

As if this were not seasoning enough, a vocal minority in the student body at the Berkeley campus has been on a hell raising binge for nearly four years. They are demonstrating against what they decry as the impersonality of the large school. Berkeley is not the only campus plagued by this juvenile behavior, but it has made the more titillating headlines and, even worse, thrown the University's management policy off course.

Kerr who ranks at the head of the procession as an educator has been under fire from most of his regents for taking a soft line against the Berkeley agitators.

His position was a major issue between Reagan and former Governor Edmund Brown in the November election. Reagan's campaign promise to hit harder at the Berkeley squabble attracted sizeable support from people who did not realize the regents were interfering with Kerr's prerogative to administer the school but were definitely sickened by the uncalled for student behavior.

For a while, luck appeared to be with Kerr.

In 1965 he lured Roger Heyn, a native of Holland, Michigan, and dean of the U-M literary college, to Berkeley as chancellor of the University. The chancellor's role is similar to that of an executive vice president in a private corporation. He enforces the boss' orders and desires.

Only a few months ago Heyn put the clamp on the latest outburst at Berkeley. It appeared as though the beatnik element had been caged and Berkeley could resume its legally constituted function of training the younger generation.

Kerr's hasty reaction to Reagan's budget proposal lifted the lid on an uneasy situation. Unlike the case in 1929 when most of the U-M regents and its older faculty members told Dr. Clarence Cook Little that his approach to running a major school might find a more receptive outlet elsewhere and Little "resigned," the California regents took the direct path which Reagan as much as advocated in the '66 campaign.

Whether the regents would turn to Heyn or whether he would choose to step further into a politically casted involvement remains to be seen.

The man has the capacity to wrestle this particular tiger to the floor, but it will not be a one-round fight. There are too many spectators out on the playing field at the moment who will have to be cleared before Heyn or any other nominee can put the game under way again.

The condition parallels that of the Green Bay Packers a few seasons ago.

The team is owned by the city of Green Bay and for years every sports fan in town felt that as a taxpayer he was a stockholder in the enterprise and therefore free to coach the team.

In the late '50s after a dismal 1-10-1 season, the natural hunt for a new coach was on.

Somebody felt an inspiration that Vince Lombardi with an enviable record as defensive coach for the New York Giants might depart the big city's enchantments for the homespun atmosphere of a small town if certain conditions could be met.

Vinnie, as his Green Bay adulators now call him, said he might be interested if his price could be met.

The biggest ticket in Vinnie's bundle was the absolute control of the entire operation, down to the size and style of the tickets if need be.

Some of the Green Bay fans said dictatorship, American style, was supposed to have gone out of fashion when George Washington kicked King George off the Yorktown peninsula. Others, though, were sick of too many cooks stirring the broth.

They punched Vinnie's ticket.

That was seven years ago, measured by the 1966 season.

In that span Vinnie has put together the most awesome gridiron machine ever to play the game. His teams have won the NFL western division title five times, taken the full title twice running, and just eight days back added the world championship to their belt.

Inevitably some other aggregation will get to the Packers for the top honors, but as long as Green Bay follows the Lombardi management system its opponents better say a prayer before jousting with Vinnie's men.

California needs the same treatment.

DEEPER CHANNEL ASKED FOR PORT

—10 Years Ago—

The twin cities and South Haven, along with six other port cities on the eastern and northern shores of Lake Michigan, asked here Tuesday that their harbors be deepened to handle the biggest ocean vessels that will be able to come into the Great Lakes with opening of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The twin cities' bid for a deep draft harbor was presented by Don Stewart, secretary of the Twin Cities Chamber of Commerce. He cited an immediate potential tonnage of 1,100,000 to 1,200,000 tons of shipping a year in and out of the twin cities harbor. Present depth of the harbor is 21 feet while the St. Lawrence seaway will be 27 feet which automatically means deep-draft harbors will have to be dredged to that depth to handle the biggest ships that can enter the Great Lakes.

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Mothers are warned about being careful when their children complain of stomach pains. How can we distinguish between a stomach ache and appendicitis?

The warning to mothers is not meant to concern them, but rather to urge them to avoid harsh laxatives as soon as a child develops a pain in the abdomen. There is too great a tendency to force laxatives and give enemas to children and even to adults who have abdominal distress.

Dr. Coleman

Physicians and surgeons will generally admit that the diagnosis of appendicitis is probably one of the most difficult to make even after years of experience. The reason is that appendicitis may show symptoms that are confusing and often are due to conditions far removed from the region of the appendix.

It might surprise many people to know that a sore throat with swollen glands in the neck may be confused with appendicitis. Tiny swollen glands around the small intestine may accompany a sore throat, causing cramps and pain in the lower abdomen. Pleurisy of the lungs is another condition which can be confused with appendicitis.

It is understandable, therefore, that the untrained person would have difficulty in pinpointing the reasons for cramps, spasms and abdominal pains, with or without nausea and vomiting.

Physicians know the confusion and pitfalls of this diagnosis and seek all other means to become positive before recommending special treatment or surgery. Study of the blood can be helpful.

Mothers must be taught to lean in the direction of safety. Use laxatives and enemas only at the direction of the physician. Ice bags, heating pads and household drugs may mask the symptoms which are so very important to the doctor in his search for a diagnosis.

It is of any serious importance if a child develops large black and blue marks over his legs and arms even though he seems to be in perfectly good health?

These discolorations happen often to young active children who, in play, injure themselves. Almost always injury is the reason for these collections of blood under the skin. Small blood vessels are broken and produce these marks, which are technically known as ecchymoses.

If these marks are extensive and seem unrelated to real injury the reason must be sought by the study of the blood. There are many tests that reveal deficiencies of blood coagulation and a tendency toward unusual bleeding.

There are, of course, complicated and serious blood clotting diseases like the "royal disease," or hemophilia. Our present knowledge of blood diseases and problems of blood coagulation is very extensive and can almost always identify any of the serious conditions.

Is a spur on the heel a form of arthritis? How can the pain be relieved?

Spurs are deposits of calcium in the tendons of the muscles of the heel. They can be exceedingly painful unless they are well protected by rubber sponges to avoid injury. Surgery, in well chosen cases, is very beneficial. They are not a form of arthritis.

Opening lead — three of hearts. This hand occurred in the Trials played in Miami Beach in 1963 to determine the American Team for the forthcoming world championship.

The final contract at five tables was six notrump. In each case the declarer made twelve tricks with the aid of a squeeze.

One pair arrived at six diamonds and went down one because the diamonds were divided 5-0. Another pair arrived at seven diamonds, which would normally have a fair chance of success, but failed in the actual case by two tricks. The play in six notrump generally started with a heart lead, won in dummy with the king. A low diamond to the ace revealed the diamond situation and placed the contract in distinct jeopardy.

Declarer played a spade to the queen. When it held the trick, he was halfway home. The contract was not yet certain, but the prospect of a successful squeeze for the twelfth trick looked very good at this point.

In line with the general rule for squeezes — that declarer should be in a position where he has all the remaining tricks except one — South now returned the deuce of spades, deliberately giving up a trick in order to rectify the count. West won and exited with a spade to produce this position:

BORN TODAY

Green Haywood Hackworth, president of the International Court of Justice at The Hague, was born in Prestonsburg, Ky., in 1883. After graduation from Valsparso (Ind.) University, Hackworth was bookkeeper and assistant manager for a wholesale confectionery before becoming a clerk for the Civil Service commission in Washington.

After studying law at Georgetown university, Hackworth was admitted to the District of Columbia bar and to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Moving to the State Department, he was U.S. counsel in all matters before the International Joint Commission, handling legal work in American foreign policy, the drafting of treaties and other international agreements.

In 1931 he became legal adviser of the State Department, a position he held for 15 years. In 1937, President Roosevelt appointed him to the additional post of U.S. member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, a post which he held until 1949.

Upon his election to the International Court of Justice in 1946, Hackworth resigned his post with the State Department. Re-elected for a nine-year term in 1952, he succeeded to the presidency of the International Court in 1955.

Others born today include actors Dan Duryea and Randolph Scott, golf's Lawson Little and baseball's Chico Carrasquel.

SET B.H. MEETS ON SCHOOL OVERCROWDING

They Prove U-M (Band) Is Number One

BURGLARY INTERRUPTED: Berrien Sheriff's Deputies Nigel Krickhahn, right, and Don Jerue inspect a radio and adding machine left in the hallway at Pier school during apparent burglary attempt Sunday morning. Called by an area woman who said she saw a suspicious car in the neighborhood, deputies found window at the school broken and a door ajar. Three men were found hiding inside. Arrested on breaking and entering charges were John C. Blue, 20, route 1, Watervliet; William E. Moore, 22, Coloma, and Michael E. Lhotka, 18, route 2, Watervliet. Deputies said the break-in may be linked to another burglary reported Sunday.

'FEAR RUNS RAMPANT'

Rev. Lyman Sees Evil Men Gaining In Today's Society

The great battle of this generation is the preservation of morality against the hoax of an immoral code of reckless and irresponsible freedom that evil men are fashioning for our society today.

So the Rev. Howard A. Lyman told his congregation Sunday at the Benton Harbor Methodist Peace Temple, where he gave his second in a series of three farewell sermons. He is to leave here for a Lansing pastorage.

"I am convinced," he declared, "that the men of this age, claiming to be totally free to give themselves recklessly and fearlessly to the task of shaping the destiny of the world are men of evil intent and selfish design. They are destroying the virtues of government; making a shambles of law enforcement; are crying for power without responsibility."

He called it a rather strange phenomenon that the "beatnik, who professes no great moral conviction" is the most vehemently outspoken on the question of the moral rightness of the war in Viet Nam.

PARADOX
It is even more of a conundrum, he commented, that the great minds of the government are trying to justify the war and are struggling desperately to keep the issue of morality out of governmental decisions.

In a world "so potentially dangerous...so utterly reckless in its wild determination to force hell to become heaven, wrong to be right and self aggrandizement to become man's highest goal," the Rev. Lyman said, there needs to be injected Jesus' philosophy when He told His disciples not to be concerned about their everyday material needs, but to seek the kingdom of heaven for "it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

He called on Christians to begin on the home front to free themselves from the "inner fears that drive men to inhuman attitudes and deeds."

His topic was "Be Not Afraid."

'FEAR IS NORMAL'

He told listeners that fear is as normal as life itself but, if permitted, can become an abnormal obsession, which distorts lives, dwarfs personalities, and lessens ability to function as normal human beings.

The world is full of fears, he said, induced by bonfires of hatred seething on every continent; the constant threat of nuclear war and of man's annihilation; the intense strain of competition; the flood of new knowledge and the outbursts of scientific data which are creating an entirely new environment to be coped with.

Fears have become a way of life, he commented. Daughters no longer safe on the streets at night; one can no longer be a good Samaritan; gas station attendants risking their lives, by keeping their stations open at night; bank tellers confronted by ruthless men; a detailed legal document necessary for a simple neighborhood business transaction; doors must be bolted; children are not safe from attack, and even little old ladies are accosted.

PREDOMINATING
But the greatest fears are those of incapability; of injustice; of inequality, he said.

Reminding that change is not easy, he said we must remember that the masses of humanity are now storming our citadels of tradition, complacency and self-satisfaction and a whole new world is about to be born.

"We can give it birth with a vibrant new sense of moral responsibility or we can continue to let this hoax of an immoral code of reckless and irresponsible freedom become the consuming passion of our society until one day we awaken to find ourselves no longer free at all, but in bondage to evil men, creators of a greater hell than the world has ever imagined."

"They seek privilege without stewardship; they are attacking the foundational principles of our moral order; they are trying to wrest from us our basic faith in God!"

The hour has come for committed Christians to be Christians in the freedom of daring to live their lives for Christ and in the truth of Christ, he concluded.

The pastor's first sermon in the series on the previous Sunday was on the problems of today's complex world — problems stemming from overpopulation, technological advances, affluence and poverty, and racial tensions.

Concert Is Great, Says B.H. Crowd

Lacks Guitars, Nothing Else

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

There is still a place for big bands.

Sunday, it was at Benton Harbor high school gymnasium where a crowd of more than 2,000 applauded Prof. William D. Revelli and the 120 members of his University of Michigan Symphony band.

This band had no guitars or amplifiers, none was needed. But it had a harp and other fine musicianship for clarity on delicate movements. It also had resonance for numbers that opened all the valves and intensified the beats of the percussion section.

The two hour concert consisted of 14 selections, ranging from Wagner to Gershwin, plus two encores. Prof. Revelli responded to the applause by directing a wild Latin American rhythm. The grand finale was (what else?) "The Victors" played and sung amidst a standing ovation.

TOP BAND

Introduced by Benton Harbor Band Director Bernie Kuschel as the nation's No. 1 collegiate band, the U-M musicians lived up to their billing. Revelli also had an accolade for Kuschel: "Here in Benton Harbor, you have in Mr. Kuschel one of the most truly competent and dedicated men in the field."

The U-M conductor then veered into the future with a plea to "support Your schools." He noted means always are found for the present but the future can be overlooked. Civilization depends on what the present generation provides for future education.

He called school bonding programs a good investment. A Benton Harbor district committee is drafting a building program intended to provide for immediate and future needs.

Two of the bandsmen performed in solo roles that were acclaimed by the audience. Brian Bowman of Dixon, Ill., played "Napoli" and the "Flow Song" from Carmen on the euphonium, accompanied by the band. The familiar "Summer-time" was a trombone number by Joe Duchi of Ashley, Mich.

Another hit was "Stars and Bars," the composition of bandsman Robert Jager, who directed it.

Considered the most technically demanding numbers for the band were Overture and Caccia by Menotti and two movements by Trittico.

Revelli called the audience one of the most responsive he has performed before. He also renewed acquaintances with Benton Harbor Superintendent Albert Johnson, a former fishing partner.

Some 40 area public school band directors and their students attended the concert sponsored by the Benton Harbor high school band and Band and Orchestra Parents.

Review Cause, Treatment Of Heart Disease

A review of the cause and treatment of the third most common type of heart disease, rheumatic fever, was presented to members of the Berrien county chapter of the Michigan Heart association at their recent meeting at Holly's Grill in Benton Harbor.

Ralph Lewis, director of professional education for the state association, was the speaker.

Miss Mary Lou Masters, radio and television coordinator, for the state association, met after the regular meeting to discuss formulation of publicity programs on the matter of heart disease work with the chapter's publicity committee.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Alfred Hinkelman, chairman; Mrs. William Mitchell, and Dr. Jack Bronfrenner.

It was announced at the meeting that next heart rehabilitation program class will be held March 15 at Mercy hospital.

The chapter will hold its next meeting Feb. 8 at Holly's Grill.

HEAR U. OF M. BAND: Among the some 2,000 persons who heard the University of Michigan symphony band perform at Benton Harbor high school Sunday afternoon were, from left, Mr. and Mrs. Bardall Bowman and their daughter, from Dixon, Ill. The Bardalls, seen with the band's famed leader, Prof. William Revelli, drove about 180 miles from their home to attend the concert. Their son Brian Bowman, was featured as a soloist in two numbers. 'Bailey' Not 'Here' Now, Say Police

Alleged BH Beer Buyer Arrested

They can take down the "Bailey's Here" signs.

Benton Harbor police reported that James Bailey, 67, of 354 Paw Paw avenue, was arrested about 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and booked on a charge of furnishing intoxicants to minors.

Det. Neil Teske reported the arrest came after two youths were furnished $2 by police to trap the accused man in the act of buying beer. Teske reported that police watched as the youths gave Bailey the money which was spent for a six pack of beer. No change was refunded to the youths, police indicated.

According to police, the beer-buying for minors activity had become popular among youths and several "Bailey's Here" signs had been surreptitiously placed in some city schools.

All YMCA high school church league basketball games scheduled to be played tonight at the Fairplain junior high school gymnasium have been postponed until Feb. 23.

ST. PAUL'S

SJ Church Approves Budget Of $40,600

A budget of $40,600 was approved by St. Paul's Episcopal church in St. Joseph at its recent annual meeting of the church, the Rev. H. Stewart Ross, rector, revealed today.

New officers elected to the vestry are: Daniel Griswold, Edward Strong and Orlando Iannelli.

At the Vestry meeting, which followed the annual one, Ben Donaldson was named senior warden; Dr. Fred Bell, junior warden; Mrs. Martin Tretheway, secretary; and Richard Insley, treasurer.

The new slate of officers for Women of the church includes: Mrs. Eamon Rutledge, president; Mrs. Jack Dorgelo, vice president; Mrs. David Stephen, secretary; Mrs. Fielding Finch, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Charles Brown, treasurer.

COMMUNION SCHEDULE

Father Ross announces that from now on there will be an 8 a.m. celebration of Holy Communion each Sunday and that a family service of Holy Communion will meet at 9:15 a.m., the same time as the Sunday school. A morning prayer service will alternate with an 11 o'clock Communion service, with Communion set next Sunday, Jan. 29.

It is planned, he said, to follow the 9:15 a.m. family service Sundays with a combined informal type of instruction and coffee in the parish hall.

MAY CHANGE

The new time schedule, Mr. Ross said is entirely experimental and possible changes may be made after Easter.

Members voted their annual contribution of $100 to Nashotah House, a seminary of the Episcopal church at Nashotah, Wis.

False Alarm At SJ Bank

A false bank alarm drew St. Joseph police to Peoples State Bank, State and Ship streets, at 6:49 this morning. The three officers found only the janitor in the building who said he didn't think he had set off the alarm.

Seek Ideas On Solution From Public

Senior High Jammed Above Its Capacity

The first of a series of four public meetings will be held this week to discuss solutions for overcrowding at Benton Harbor high school.

The kickoff session is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday at Lafayette school. Other meetings will be held at central locations in the school district—Johnson school, Jan. 30; Benton Harbor high, Jan. 31, and Fairplain junior high, Feb. 1.

Members of the board of education and administration will be present to explain the situation and give possible methods of relieving the overcrowding from the public also will be heard.

Possibilities discussed by the board so far include split shifts at the high school, transfer of ninth grade students to other schools and use of portable classrooms.

CLASSROOMS JAMMED

The high school's enrollment is 2,458, about 550 above its functional capacity which provides 85 per cent occupancy of classrooms of 288 students over total utilization (maximum) capacity. The jam has caused one class to move to a church and others to meet in places not considered as classrooms.

A building program estimated to cost $25 million is now before a school planning committee, but it will be of no help to the high school next year when enrollment will climb to 2,515 unless emergency action is taken to make provisions for the overflow.

Two S.J. Boys Blamed In Theft

Two 13-year-old St. Joseph boys were arrested over the weekend in connection with the Saturday theft of a pair of black figure skates at the Whittlesley avenue skating ring. The pair, which were petitioned to juvenile court, were arrested after police received a tip on their identity. The skates have not been recovered.

Clothes Drier Catches Fire

Benton Harbor firemen at 9:30 p.m. Sunday, were called to the home of John Genovese, 759 Ogden avenue, where clothes inside a clothes drier burned. Firemen said damage was limited to the clothes and drier.

Brings Fund Total To $750,000

Center Will Be Addition To Memorial

Federal funds have been assured for a $750,000 mental health center in St. Joseph that will serve this section of the state.

Robert Bradburn, administrator of Memorial hospital, announced today that federal authorities have approved the St. Joseph hospital's application for $400,000 in funds under the Hill-Burton act which provides funds for health facility construction.

Notification came to Bradburn from the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Previously, the hospital had been notified of state and federal approval of its application for $350,000 in federal funds under Public Law 88-164 which authorizes construction of community mental health centers.

HOSPITAL ADDITION

Accordingly, Memorial will receive a total of $750,000 in federal grants for construction of the new community mental health center. This will be a two-story separate building attached at the southwest end of the new South addition to the general hospital, Bradburn said.

The mental health center will contain spaces for 32 in-patients and the same number of day care patients. In addition, the St. Joseph River Valley Mental Health Clinic, formerly the Twin City Child Development Center, will occupy part of one floor of the new building and provide out-patient care for children and adults.

Final planning for the mental health center will not be completed until the end of 1967, according to Bradburn.

PLANS PENDING

Completed plans for the 4½ million dollar 92 bed addition to the hospital are awaiting final approval by State and Federal authorities. It is anticipated that such approval will be received this month and that plans will be submitted to contractors for bidding in February, Bradburn reported today. Construction will start early this spring and will be completed in 18 to 24 months. The entire cost of this addition and remodeling of the present building will be met from proceeds of the Memorial-Mercy Joint Building Fund and a loan from an insurance company.

Due to the low priority of the twin city area for Hill-Burton assistance for general hospital beds, the only federal assistance which will be received is designated for the construction of the mental health center, Bradburn explained.

Hundreds Tour New Hospital

Open House At Paw Paw Facility

PAW PAW—Several hundred visitors viewed the new $11.1 million Paw Paw Lake View Community hospital yesterday afternoon during a public open house, according to hospital officials.

Brief ceremonies were held at 2 p.m. when the cornerstone of the building was dedicated, and the public open house followed.

Nurses, nurse aides, clerks and administrative personnel were stationed in all parts of the hospital to direct the visitors and answer questions about the 61-bed facility.

The hospital features many of the latest ideas in hospital care and layout. The spacious lobby has a small gift shop, and the surgical, medical, pediatrics and intensive care areas are separated. Laundry, kitchen and central supply facilities are designed to handle future growth of the hospital.

TRANSFERS TO START
A pharmacy is located within the hospital. Emergency power is supplied by a diesel generating unit which starts automatically.

Hospital spokesmen said the transfer of patients from the old unit to the new is expected to start about Wednesday.

Probe Arson In Car Fire

CASSOPOLIS—Cass county sheriff's deputies and South Bend police are today investigating a case of arson involving a stolen car.

The burned car, a 1964 convertible, was discovered in a field two miles southwest of Edwardsburg late Sunday afternoon. It had been reported stolen in South Bend at 11:57 p.m. Saturday. The car is registered to Mary White of 637 South Third street, Niles.

Cass deputies said heavy fog during the night apparently kept the car from being seen while it was burning in the field some 60 feet off May street. Police said the car was destroyed by the fire.

Ferency Changes His Mind

Urged To Keep Democratic Post

ROYAL OAK (AP)—Because of what he termed "recent indications" Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency has reconsidered his decision not to seek re-election and Sen. Sander Levin has taken himself out of the running for the post.

The Detroit Democrat Saturday quoted Detroit Mayor George P. Cavanagh as saying Ferency's movement at the Democrats' state convention in Grand Rapids next month.

Ferency last week conferred with Cavanagh in the mayor's office and the following day announced he will retire from his $22,000 party post.

However, Levin said action by 17th District Democrats urging Ferency to seek re-election and statements by "close personal friends of Ferency" indicated the chairman has changed his mind.

'UNIFICATION'
Levin said his withdrawal from consideration "also reflects my strong belief that the Democratic party needs unified purpose and efforts especially at this time."

"This seems essential," Levin said, "if the Democratic party is to attract additional people to its ranks and bring about the much closer internal coordination so vitally needed."

Five Die As Planes Hit, Parts Rain From Sky

PLANES HIT HOMES FOR ELDERLY: Flames burst from one of several buildings struck by falling aircraft after two jet planes collided in the air near Santa Ana, Calif., Sunday. Wreckage struck buildings of the Leisure World Retirement Community.

One Pilot Still Alive After Crash

Government Had Protested Site For Settlement

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — "Oh, My God! I hope I got it past the building!"

These were Marine Capt. James Powell's last words, minutes after his Skyhawk jet attack plane collided with another in a rainstorm Sunday.

Both disabled planes crashed into a Southern California retirement community, setting two dwellings on fire. Powell and four residents died.

Four other persons were injured, three residents of the Leisure World community and the pilot of the second A4B skyhawk.

Many residents of the community 14 miles southeast of Santa Ana and 45 miles southeast of Los Angeles were away at church services when the planes crashed.

"No one had a chance," said Dr. Adrian Irvine, a retired physician. "I looked out a window and saw a mass of flames engulf the building."

Laura Stevens, like Irvine a Leisure World resident, was reading a newspaper when she heard what sounded like thunder.

SAW FLAMES

She saw a neighboring unit enveloped in flames and "people running out of the building carrying bundles of clothing."

As plane wreckage ripped through two of the two-story buildings, other persons were trapped temporarily by flames and debris.

A fuel tank fell from one of the planes as it smashed through the first building.

Roy Cody of Fresno, Calif., who was visiting relatives, said he heard several explosions, "like bottles blowing up."

Investigators several hours after the crash theorized that the radio in one of the planes may have gone dead as the pilot was being guided toward a landing at El Toro Marine Air Station.

RESERVE TRAINING

Both planes were from Marine Attack Squadron 132, Naval Air Station, Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N.Y. Their pilots were scheduled for two weeks' reserve training.

Although El Toro is about five miles from the 3,600-acre housing development, Leisure World lies squarely in the instrument approach path to the airstrip.

The community, with apartment-like dwellings sold to retired people, was built over objections of the Department of Defense. A compromise reached in 1962 permitted the Ross Corlees Development Co. to go ahead by agreeing to reserve a half-mile strip touching the air station for nonresidential use.

PILOT EJECTED: Residents of the Leisure World Retirement Community near Santa Ana, Calif., come to the aid of one of two Marine Corps Reserve pilots who ejected after their planes collided in the air Sunday. One of the pilots died at a nearby Marin base. The other is in critical condition. Residents said this pilot banged against wall at left as he landed.

Both of the buildings destroyed by the planes' wreckage were adjacent to the half-mile strip.

BODIES FOUND

As more than 100 firemen battled smoke and flame, the bodies of Leon Lauderbach, 77, a paraplegic, Harold Berman and his wife Margaret and H.H. Kenyon, 87, were recovered.

Powell, of New Milford, N.J., was fatally injured when caught his parachute and smashed him against a stucco wall.

The other pilot, Capt. Frank

Gambelli, 29, of Livingston, N.J., also ejected. He was found near his wrecked plane, suffering from shock, and was taken to El Toro's base hospital.

Rescuers heard Powell cry out: "Did I clear the building? Oh, My God! I hope I got it past the building!"

BUS DRIVER HELPS

Gary Paul White, a bus driver who was one of the first at the scene, said, "We were afraid sparks might ignite his (Powell's) parachute so we cut him free of the harness and tried to drag the parachute off the building, but we couldn't."

When the pilot lost consciousness, White tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and then heart massage. When he saw Powell was dead, White covered him with his jacket.

The injured civilians taken to South Coast Hospital in South Laguna Beach were Jona H. Taylor, 64, and Gladys L. Lauderbach, 79, wife of one of the dead, and Anita Brown, 59, who were listed in serious but apparently improved condition.

Cass Deputies Nab 3 Wanted In Milwaukee

DOWAGIAC — Two 18-year-old Milwaukee youths, arrested by Cass county sheriff's deputies near here Sunday morning on charges of having beer in their car are wanted by Milwaukee authorities on car theft and grand larceny charges.

The youths, David Hohlner and Roger Deja, are being held in the Cass county jail. They will probably be turned over to Milwaukee police and the Cass county charge will be dropped, according to deputies.

A 13-year-old Milwaukee girl found in the car with the youths was turned over to her parents.

Deputies Norman Bannow and James Snow made the arrests. They said they were on routine patrol on M-40 just south of Dowagiac when they became suspicious of a driver who started to pull a car out of a driveway, then stopped, backed up and turned the vehicle's lights off after seeing the patrol car.

Finds Pistol When He Gets His Car Back

SOUTH HAVEN—Orville Winsor, 570 Kalamazoo street, South Haven, told state police here early Sunday morning his car was stolen from the parking lot at Rose Villa tavern, in South Haven township.

Around 10 a.m. Sunday, Winsor told troopers he had found his car parked on Aylworth avenue near the industrial park. He said the car was out of gas and an aluminum dinner pail, transistor radio and camera were missing from it.

In place of the items, the thief left a .22 caliber pistol, Winsor added. The pistol was turned over to police and two of the stolen items, the dinner pail and radio, were later located by troopers along Blue Star Memorial highway in Casco township, north of South Haven.

Truck Burns; Loss Is $400

BUCHANAN — Fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $400 damage to a truck tractor belonging to Buchanan Co-ops, Inc., 122 Days avenue, here Sunday afternoon.

The cab of the truck was burned along with the gas line and a full tank of fuel. The fuel tank did not explode.

The tractor was parked in the rear of the Co-op's store building in a fenced yard. The blaze caused minor damage to asphalt shingles on the store building.

Modernizing

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A 10-year, $160,000 program for modernizing equipment and facilities of the township fire department has been approved by the Plainfield Township Board of Supervisors.

Two Escape Spectacular Car Crashes

Two Berrien county residents over the weekend escaped with only minor injuries in two separate accidents that demolished their cars.

Deputies from the Buchanan substation reported that early Sunday morning, Donald Trux, 46, of 1239 Parkway drive, Benton township, suffered scalp lacerations in an accident on Garr road three miles west of Berrien Springs. He was treated and released from Pawating hospital.

Deputies related that tire marks show Trux' car traveled along the shoulder of the road for 132 feet, hit an embankment, flew through the air 60 feet and landed on its top. Officers said Trux told them he did not know what happened.

In the other accident, Robert Millring, 32, of Galien, was treated for lacerations and possible back injuries at Pawating hospital and then released.

Deputies said Millring apparently lost control of his small foreign auto in a curve and ran off Cleveland avenue three miles north of Galien.

The car tumbled over several times in a field and Millring had to be pried out of the wreckage, deputies added.

He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, pleaded guilty before Justice Charles Cambern in Three Oaks and was fined $60 and given ten days in the county jail.
